KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Report of the General Master Workman and Secretary.

P. Adeny's Report a Lengthy and Interesting Document.

His Administration and Policy for Two Years Defended.

Course of the Enemies of the Order Bitterly Attacked.

Knights of Labor Convention

INDIANAPOLIS, November 15.—This morning's session of the Knights of Labor convention was devoted to further reports and routine business. There was regards and routine business. There was regards but two reports before adjournment, one being on [illegible] and executive Lathman. Powderly's report took two hours, the Richmond followed for one hour and twenty minutes. They do not seem to agree as to press. Powderly's report is a carefully compiled review of the past, addresses the administration and is two pages of the administration and is to be an interesting document.

General master workman's report be gins as follows:

For 19 years the order of Knights of Labor has maintained its existence in the face of circumstances most disheartening. Ever struggling forward and ever attaining. Struggling forward and ever attaining, it emerges into the light of success it has always reached from those in whose behalf it ever toiled. Later on it [illegible] the world as an advocate of peace for the poor, and found all who were enemies of the oppressed arrayed against it. In all of these years it has had to brave the taunts and insults of many whose interests it served. Since the adoption of [illegible] another order has had the opposition of all who opposed their principles, but the year ending we witness at this session has been most trying and [illegible] owing to those whose wish was to see a harmonious blending of all classes of workers beneath the shield of knighthood. Many causes combined to [illegible] the minds of those who swore [illegible] to the principles of the Knights of Labor. Circulation of false statements concerning the strength of the order, by those [illegible] and disposition as being superior to quality in the make up of the membership of labor organizations. When the unrest went forth from its enemies' quarters that the members were stepping down those members who looked to others for what they should do themselves dropped out also. When the diversity of opinion between the several [illegible] been so heralded broadcast by those who always assembled, those members who looked for unity, among the officers instead of doing their duty by waiting until they could replace these officers with others, withdrew from the order temporarily. The story so often [illegible] and so wonderfully magnified as a [illegible] of the general officers [illegible] others, and they too closed [illegible] session would assemble [illegible] ranks were men who [illegible] not [illegible] for the cause of weal, and on no occasion would they consult self for the good of all. The oft told story of their grievances slumbered and drifted away from the mind. With an executive board whose members were not in harmony with whether was traveling from place to place denouncing their fellow officers and [illegible] actions they were not responsible for, it could not be wondered at that we have lost in numbers. Unwise strikes which were entered upon against the laws and principles of the Knights of Labor swept thousands of our members into poverty and forced them from the order. Add to all of these causes the campaign which has just closed in the United States, in which members and assemblies were pitted each other on a question which never was made part of the declaration of principles, on which they could very well afford to differ without differing to any point in the laws and rules of the [illegible] been a falling off, but that we have passed through the crucial test with [illegible] unbroken as we find them today.

He stated that these trials have resulted in good for the order and denied anything like official dishonesty, inviting thorough examination of all the books and accounts. Many changes are desired in the constitution so as to avoid frequent changes which are recommended at each session. He recommends total abolition of the sections which provide for appointment and government of [illegible] districts. The law as it is at present framed is a dead letter. Examination of sections 22 and 23 will show that in addition to his other duties the general master workman is required to examine the statement of expenses as reported by the general secretary. The treasury department should be held responsible for all moneys passing through its channels, as the general treasurer should be vested with the veto power so far as [illegible] the payment on bills of which he is in [illegible] concerned. Assessments [illegible] and affairs are entrusted in [illegible] hands. A responsible party should be invested with the management of the business.

After speaking of the high estimation in which the order is held by many outside of it, and showing the multiplicity of detail he must look after, he concluded. We have been treated to many discourses during the past year on the subject of the one man power. The chief trouble with our order is because of the lack of one man power. Our [illegible] has been divided in the past, and [illegible] worked injury to us. The will of [illegible] crystallized into the law and [illegible] places of our constitution by [illegible] captives here assembled should be [illegible] to the letter. To do this the [illegible] should be assigned to one man to [illegible] laws. Where many [illegible] laws themselves they always [illegible] Were each man interpret the [illegible] himself there would be a [illegible] sound and confusion. Vest in [illegible] the power to execute the laws, [illegible] favor and pass upon all [illegible] differences with that [illegible] of his duty and you [illegible] results. Allow every self [illegible] to interpret the laws and [illegible] every disturber and [illegible] to interpret the laws and [illegible] to commence by some has given the impression that the man who [illegible] one man power was a [illegible] to the masses. No greater mistake ever made. The man who [illegible] people they can all act independent [illegible] each other on every issue that [illegible] and do it intelligently is [illegible] No matter how intelligent the people may be they must [illegible] to determine not what one man [illegible] but what is best for all men. When they meet many cherished theories [illegible] way to practicability [illegible] Charter and Constitution [illegible] to the interest and welfare [illegible] and every [illegible] stand ahead to shielded form [illegible] the [illegible] and the welfare [illegible] them rather than to have said [illegible] down hands and [illegible] to say she wants that your professions assigned to the Members can't [illegible] with new ones. I would not for a moment [illegible] with any [illegible] with any hope of success. Yet for [illegible] sake of the good that might follow [illegible] and [illegible] by [illegible] I have [illegible] which the United colonies would have found themselves [illegible] to such men as Dr. Seattle and the [illegible] of three millions of that day were [illegible] those which were placed in the keeping, no better than those brought before the board of the Knights of Labor.

After recognizing on the influence of [illegible] pending questions saying: The most important questions that can come up before this body for consideration are those of finance, land and transportation. These great questions are to be for the people for a century, and should be worked by the people for it is not the interest of politicians to do so. Trusts will control our public highways and are now ring of with a band of steel to grasp and control the government itself, and it is indeed a battle for supremacy. If the masses remain idle and indifferent the classes will rule through the power which comes to them through banking, railway and land monopolies. It is therefore a duty which we should not neglect to select the sections which I have pointed out and place them prominently before our members for discussion. He recommends that a special committee of three be appointed to take up this matter. He advocated concentration of energy on these questions and further recommends the formation of junior assemblies for educating younger working people.

Matters of interest chiefly to the order came in for a good share of attention, and he favors change of time of holding [illegible] by believing it comes too close to election. He says: It might happen that in the heat of a [illegible] exciting campaign members would defer us to political methods, and [illegible] be emboldened. Should our annual session be held in the midst of such a contest or soon after one it could not be productive of as much good as one held at a time when every trace of excitement, anger and ill feeling of the campaign had died away.

He advocates equal pay for equal work for women. The provisional committee is referred to as follows: Scarcely had the [illegible] fallen on the last act of the Minneapolis convention than traitors [illegible] to discover what it had taken years of time and patient work to construct. The majority of the last convention were right. They legislated as they saw the necessity for it. They refused to pass resolutions with which they were not in sympathy. At the close of the general assembly a meeting was held in the city of Chicago with the avowed purpose of disrupting the whole of the order. At that meeting it was resolved to organize a so-called 'provisional committee' for the purpose of [illegible] the order. Division No. [illegible] which is herewith presented for action of the general assembly, deals with the question of the equity of members of the 'provisional committee.' In visit of otherwise meddle with the assembly of this order. That decision should be approved and a law passed at this meeting which would promptly and forever expel from the order a member who would engage in such a disgraceful work as was inaugurated at the meeting of the Chicago provisionals. Reforms spring from noble impulses, but the impulse which further the assembly of 'provisionals' was born in hate, matured in envy, and grown to its present size in the hope that this great order would one day be brought beneath the rule of men who do not possess the courage or manhood to properly rule themselves. No hesitancy and mawkish sentiment should sway us at this session. Let us at once and forever put it beyond the power of any man to night this order or its principles and remain a member. If they will tear down let them tear from the outside, and let every true, honest man in the order take sides, and either go with the misguided creatures or stand firm and defend the order from their vile attacks. [illegible] Labor come from persistent opposition which has been shown by the idea of allowing other organizations to control the Knights of Labor. Do not misunderstand me, for I do not refer to trades unions. I once referred to this matter at a meeting of this body, and by so doing was twisted and tortured to serve the purpose of designing knaves, who attempted to play upon the feelings of trade unionists. I do not mean trade unions. Their cause and ours are one in the main. The organization which your general master workman speaks of is the International Working men's association, which passed resolutions three years ago to secure the election of its trusted agents as general officers of the Knights of Labor. Proofs are in my possession. The plans of these men met with but little success, and from that time to the present members of that organization have secretly and untiringly worked for the ruin of this order. We had the misfortune to elect a man who was a member or sympathizer to the general executive board, and he has at all times shown a preference for the principles of that organization. An honest man would go with the society which elected him to allegiance, but men who will deny their connection with other societies will not scruple to destroy the Knights of Labor if the opportunity presents itself. The opportunity never presented itself and they sought to make it and failed. You may accuse your general master workman of entertaining bitter feeling for this element. If so you are wrong. There is no bitterness, but there is a determination on his part to [illegible] discord if it lays in his power to do so.

He advocated a more equal division of wealth produced by labor, and denounces gambling in money, in land in railways and in every food which is withheld from the wealths of millions at the sound of the stock broker's ticker.

In his report ex-Secretary Litchman gives a detailed statement of his connection [illegible] from his admission to the present time quoting from the official records of past sessions of the general assembly to prove the falsity of charges of dishonesty which have been circulated against him. He showed from the records that everything had been satisfactorily explained to the general assembly, and his course was approved by its resolution at the Detroit meeting in 1887. His connection with a general insurance secretaryship was in no wise the cause of the failure of the system, because it was rotten.

Next he took up his election as general secretary two years ago, explaining that by good service and business methods he hoped forever to influence his slanderers. He gave details to show what points he used money on the order. In answer to charges [illegible] he had [illegible] he was the target of [illegible] served reason. He had [illegible] by reason who was a Knight of Labor in good standing he believed he did properly in so doing but [illegible] than [illegible] worth of the whole amount that would come then. He [illegible] that he [illegible] that he had nothing to do with paying bills that were having on [illegible] ner. He further denied the [illegible] that he had employed [illegible] the general office.

He recommended that the general secretary be [illegible] counting of [illegible] Parks' [illegible] and in favor of [illegible] clerical executive board to [illegible] members of general [illegible] secretary, and two members [illegible] placed with safe depositories [illegible] edged the importance of the present session for weal or woe of the order, and counselled great care in the selection of officers for the ensuing year. He [illegible] session was appended as part of the [illegible] and. He closed with an expression of thanks to the general officers for courtesies, and in hope for the continued success of the order.

The afternoon session was cut short owing to the regular meeting of the Women's Relief Corps.

The following was adopted:

Resolved, That we consider it would be very impolitic and ill-advised action for any body of men from this convention to meet or await upon the president elect of the Knights of Labor.

Last year exactly similar action was taken at Minneapolis in regard to President Cleveland who was there at that time.

Organized Farmers in Convention.

TOPEKA, KANS., November 15.—The annual convention of the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry met here yesterday. Every state in the union was represented. Standing committees were announced. This morning Acting Master James Draper delivered the annual address. He spoke of the flourishing condition of the order and said that during the past year 193 subordinate granges had been [illegible] the greatest [illegible] being in North Carolina. Each succeeding year showed the organization perfected system in the supervision of its legislative interests. He recommended that some person with authority to act for the grange, be stationed in Washington during the sessions of congress. After criticizing the action of the United States senate in [illegible] the bill to enlarge the powers and duties of the department of agriculture, he turned attention to trusts, which he denounced as injurious to the producer and consumer alike, to an extent unparalleled in the world's history.

On the tariff question he said: "The declaration of the supporters of our present [illegible] protection for the weak and restraint upon the strong." Equitable tariff legislation, as we have stated, [illegible] in this direction, and to accomplish anything we must use our individual influence and organized power in demanding reduction of highly protected industries to correspond with the protection agriculture is receiving, or else increase of protection to agriculture that shall be equitable and just to all concerned.

The annual convention of the Farmers' Congress of the United States also met in this city. The roll-call showed thirty states were represented.

Chamberlain Endorsed.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—Quietly and simply, in the presence of the bride's relatives, personal friends, members of Washington's official society and several hundred of the general public, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain and Miss Mary Endicott were married at two o'clock this afternoon in St. John's Episcopal church. The church was absolutely without floral or other decorations. No cards or formal invitations had been issued, no best man or brides maids, and the entire service was characterized by extreme simplicity. Such of the friends of the family as had been verbally invited took seats in the body of the church half an hour before the ceremony began. The cabinet meeting ended early to permit the members to be present at the service. They were in most cases accompanied by their wives. The president and Mrs. Cleveland entered the church just before two o'clock and were escorted to seats in one of the pews in the first row. Members of the Endicott family and relations were seated immediately in the rear, while as many of the public as could find room in the little church filled the gallery and hallways.

Chamberlain entered the church at 2 o'clock and waited at the chancel. His appearance was the signal to the organist, who immediately began to play the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and the bride, leaning on her father's arm, arrived in a pearl gray traveling dress, wearing a dark bonnet, passed up the right aisle and joining the bridegroom knelt before the altar. Rev. Dr. Leonard assisted by Rev. Mr. Franks of Salem, Mass., performed the Episcopal wedding service. Both bride and groom gave back the responses in a firm, audible voice. Prayer was pronounced and Joseph Chamberlain and Mary Endicott were man and wife. Again the organ pealed forth, and to its strains the party slowly passed along the left aisle out of the church and into carriages and were driven immediately to the house of the bride's parents.

A Broker in Trouble.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The arrest of Brower Curtiss Corwith in business circles of this city. Gurdon Corwith, who is the son of Nathan Corwith, of lead syndicate fame, is charged with not having accounted for 401 carloads of lead valued at $500,000, also with having fraudulently applied certain assets and with embezzling moneys that belong to the firm of N. Corwith & Co. The assignee of the firm would neither deny nor affirm the report that Corwith was about to depart for Europe when arrested.

Claim Against Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, November 15.—Colonel [illegible] Galveston November 15.—It is stated ex-United States Minister John W. Foster, who left here yesterday presented the claims of the estate of Charles Butterfield against Mexico for war material and ships of war to the amount of over $20,000,000.

The Mexican National railroad has refused to receive Mexican National bank notes causing considerable trouble.

The Chickasaw Crisis.

ST. LOUIS, November 15.—Advices from Indian territory obtained from a gentleman who arrived at Little Rock today from the Chickasaw nation represent affairs [illegible] coalition. Partisans of Byrd and Guy, contestants for the gubernatorial office, are heavily armed and the capital of Tishomingo is in a state of great disorder. A proposition has been made to submit the election of governor to a committee of five leading Indians of the Choctaw, Cherokee, Chickasaw, Creek and Seminole nations, and abide by their decision. If this is done the gentleman said bloodshed will be averted, otherwise the Chickasaws will drift into anarchy.

Police and Strikers.

BIRMINGHAM, November 15.—An attempt was made to run a car on the Lee avenue line under police guard. At Myrtle avenue Mones and bricks by the dozen were hurled at the car by strikers. Police charged the mob and after a lively fight dispersed the rioters and made six arrests. The attempt to run a car over the entire route was abandoned.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The street drivers strike in Brooklyn as the result of a conference to night, was declared off.

Rejoicing Over the Election.

BOSTON, November 15.—The Home Market club gave an elegant banquet to-night because of the election result. Thirteen hundred persons sat at dinner. Timothy Merrick presided. Among those present were General Alger of Michigan, Wm. E. Chandler, John D. Long, Warner Miller, R. C. Taft, Gen. F. Hoar and General Banks. Speeches were made by General Alger, Warner Miller, Senator Aldrich, E. L. Sheppard, John F. Seaman of Chicago, G. P. Hoar and J. B. Clayton of South Carolina. President-elect Harrison sent a letter of regret for non-attendance.

Mormons in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 15.—Mormon delegates from the northwest are dissatisfied with the result of their visit to Ottawa. The government will not grant their request to be allowed to bring in machinery and implements free of duty, or to be permitted to bring in [illegible] to whom they had been previously married according to Mormon ceremony.

Russian Troops on the Frontier.

ST. PETERSBURG, November 15.—It is denied in government circles that any changes in the organization of troops in western Russia have a warlike intent. The object of the movements is to develop defence [illegible] to preserve the military balance compared with forces maintained by neighboring powers.

Strike of Millwrights.

PITTSBURG, November 15.—Mill pudders at the American Iron works struck this morning against the change in working hours made necessary by the scarcity of natural gas during the day time.

FOUR STORIES HIGH.

Colorado Springs to Have a $175,000 Business Block.

The Handsome New Building to Occupy the Present Site of the Anderson Block on Tejon Street and Pike's Peak Ave.

Work to Begin Not Later than the First of March Next.

For many years travelers to Colorado Springs have commented on the [illegible] of the business portion of the city when [illegible] the absence of business property in [illegible] We are contented with the rows [illegible] of two-story dwellings they [illegible] favorably [illegible] Occasionally one of two story buildings [illegible] as the opera [illegible] Sunday, Sam Bard [illegible] who would be a credit to any [illegible] majority of those of the cheap plaster character, which were put up in every days before the [illegible] ments of the town was needed. They [illegible] to the stranger the impression that the business men have a faith in the place or that they have come to stay.

A majority of the citizens will be pleased to learn that a change is now on foot to give Colorado Springs one of the handsomest business blocks in the state. It will undoubtedly be the finest building of the kind outside of Denver. A company has been formed with a capital stock of $175,000 for the purpose of building a handsome block on the present site of the Anderson block, on the northwest corner of Tejon street and Pike's Peak avenue. The incorporators are W. F. Anderson, J. J. Hagerman, L. B. Ehrich, J. A. Hayes, jr., and A. R. Buck, of New York. They are the principal owners of the stock, although most of it is owned by eastern parties. Sufficient of the stock has been subscribed to [illegible] the building and it is now assured fact.

The specifications have [illegible] been completed and the exact size of the building is not known as there are two small lots adjoining the land now owned by the company, which they are very anxious to secure. These are the places now occupied by the Hixon & Cowell transfer company as [illegible] on Pike's Peak avenue, and by J. W. D. Stoneley's grocery store on Tejon street. If they can not be secured the building will [illegible] the alley of the Anderson block as it is now. If the [illegible] of the company to have the [illegible] if possible and it will be necessary to have these places [illegible]

The building will be four stories in height and built of stone. It will be heated with steam and will contain an elevator. In fact it will have all of the modern improvements. The corner will be fitted up for the use of the First National bank, although that institution is not directly interested in the company. The remainder of the lower part of the building will be arranged for business houses and the upper floors will be fitted up for offices. Already a number of applications have been received from persons desiring office rooms in the new block.

Work will be begun upon the building just as soon as possible, and not later than the first of next March. It will then be pushed rapidly to completion.

The most important building project undertaken in this city since the completion of The Antlers hotel in 1886. The gentlemen who have engaged in the enterprise expect of course to realize handsomely upon their investment, but they are investing a large sum of money and doing it partly to help the city, hoping to insure to a building boom that will make the business center of Colorado Springs what its residence portion already is, the finest in the west.

A Train Leaves Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., November 15.—For the first time in nearly three months a train load of passengers left here yesterday morning for cities of the north via Macon, Ga. Passengers flocked in the car and were not allowed to leave it until they reached Macon. The party consists of seventeen persons. A woman was taken suddenly ill Tuesday after noon at South Jacksonville. At five o'clock yesterday she died. An autopsy was ordered. Dr. Geyer, the famous Paris scientist, conducted the examination. The condition of the kidneys and intestines plainly showed a typical case of fever. Dr. Fibler secured some of the intestinal fluids and will search for yellow fever microbes. The board of health has apportioned the town into medical districts.

Receipt to Irish Bishops.

DUBLIN, November 15.—Irish bishops have received another papal receipt. It orders them to actively execute the former receipt, which instructs them to denounce the plan of campaign and boycotting. It also orders them to direct priests to preach against [illegible] forbid them to take part in boycotting and plan of campaign movements, which they must oppose with all the means in their power.

The Seward Statue Unveiled.

AUBURN, N. Y., November 15.—The [illegible] of Governor Seward took place to-day in the presence of a large concourse of people including many distinguished guests from out of town. Little Fanny Seward, daughter of General Seward and grand daughter of the statesman unveiled the statue.

Admission of Dakota.

WATERTOWN, Dak., November 15.—Governor Mellette has gone east to confer with General Harrison about the admission of Dakota.

Mr. J. C. Dana, a former resident of this city, but now of Glenwood Springs, was in the city yesterday. He is on his way to Denver, where he is to be married to a young lady of that city.

The art school is to be removed from its present quarters to one of the rooms over the Exchange National bank. The change is made on account of additional accommodations and better light.

The next attraction at the opera house will be Louis James and his talented and beautiful wife, Marie Wainwright in two of the best plays in their repertoire. The appearance of this couple in Colorado Springs each year is always hailed with delight by the lovers of the drama. Their dates are, Friday and Saturday of November, 23d and 24th.

In the district court yesterday William Williams was convicted of grand larceny. He was charged with stealing a satchel. The case of Frederick Stevens, charged with stealing a saddle, came up for trial, but after listening to the evidence, the jury decided there was no case against him. He was immediately arrested for another crime committed in Pueblo county.

The stereopticon lecture at the Baptist church on Tuesday evening was given by Rev. H. A. Buchtel, D. D., of Denver, in place of Mr. Chamberlain, detained by ill health. It was well attended and much enjoyed. No lecture will be given next Tuesday. Rev. Richard Montague will give the concluding lecture of the course on "A Modern Saint," on Tuesday evening November 27.

The new school building at Colorado City has been completed and school began last Monday with a corps of five teachers. There are about 200 pupils in attendance. The collection of $31 which was taken up on the excursion train to Denver last Saturday, as a partial compensation for the loan of the new bell, will be applied to the purchase of new books for the school library.

It is reported that three parties of engineers, under the direction of the United States geological survey, are about to commence work in Colorado to gather data for a new topographical map. They will also make an examination of the state with a view to establishing a system of reservoirs for irrigation. One party will begin work near Pueblo, one in the northern part of the state, and the other near this city.

The teachers and others interested should remember that they can attend with $5. ... of the Teachers' association tonight. Manitou to-morrow morning in special train at 9:30 a. m. over the Rio Grande returning late in the evening. The Cliff house will serve meals to those who attend at the rate of 50 cents each. A pleasant and instructive time can be had at very little expense. Professor Cornell's selection will be among the most interesting events of the session.

The Mozart Choral Union will begin another season's work by the rehearsal of "Joseph," a dramatic cantata by Professor J. Astor Broad. This society offers a pleasant means of recreation and improvement to all who are musically inclined. The chorus will again be under the leadership of Prof W. Mason Broad whose skill has been shown in the past. The first rehearsal takes place at the Congregational church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All who are interested are invited to attend. The price of a season ticket is two dollars, but where two join from the same family the price for both is only three dollars.

James Roberts, the Rio Grande gravel train man, whose death by being run over by the cars at Palmer Lake was reported in Sunday's GAZETTE, was supposed to be ill at the time. The coroner's jury which examined into the case, closed its work Tuesday and added the following very remarkable clause at the end of the verdict: "We are unable to decide whether the cause of death was accidental or criminal on the part of the railroad company or employes. We further denounce the frequent railroad accidents which usually occur at night and are fully impressed that the greater portion are due to criminal means, therefore we are determined ... the furthest and to exterminate such gross infamy."

A very large audience, for a concert greeted the Boston Quintette club last night. It was certainly a very cultured audience and enjoyed to the utmost the feast of harmony provided. Miss Anna Carpenter, the soloist of the organization, was too ill to appear and the programme was composed throughout of instrumental music. While the vocal solos no doubt would have been restful to the ear yet the instrumental pieces left nothing to be desired and the audience listened attentively to the end. Each number by the quintette was well received and the solos were each encored. The like of Oscar Hentschel's flute solos have perhaps never been heard in this city before. Mr John F Rhodes' violin solos and Mr Louis Blumenberg's violincello playing were loudly encored. The concert was a very great success from every point.

The recital at the college closed, under the auspices of the Phoenix Literary society next Friday evening. It will be an exceptionally pleasant affair. Some of the best musical talent in the city and some from Denver will participate. The concert is given to aid the improvements now going on about the college grounds. The concert will begin at 8 o'clock and tickets may be had at the Consolidated Book stores. The programme is as follows:

Pedestrianism ... Master Scott
Mrs. F. A. Walker, Miss Kate Carr
Violin solo ... Lucien Wulsin
Mr. M. O. Barnes
Supernatural ... Dessoff
Miss Robinson
Piano solo ... Raff
Miss Ethel Lee

The new town of Rialto on the Rock Island gives promise of having a great boom. The lots are selling very cheap and will soon be advanced. The town lies in a fine agricultural country and the Rock Island people have made a number of concessions to it which will give it a good start.

Judge Black's Reception Interfered

Judge Black's Reception Interfered by Republicans

The Count in West Virginia

Washington Dispatch, November 15: Both parties claim the election of Governor in West Virginia by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 3,000. The Democrats claim the Legislature on joint ballot by a majority of 3 to 5. The Republicans claim the Legislature by a majority of 1 to 3. The Democrats claim the election of Faulkner, Democrat, to Congress by 1,000 majority. The Republicans claim the election of McGrew, Republican, to Congress by 1,000 majority. The Democrats claim the Third district by a majority of 1,000. The Republicans claim the district by a majority of 1,000. The Democratic state committee and Democratic Congressional committee claim Fleming's election as governor by 3,000 majority, but future returns may change these figures.

New York's Election Figures

New York, November 15. Official returns from 57 of the 60 counties in the state, and reliable estimates from the others show Hall's majority to be about 13,000.

Judge Black's Famous Interview.

New York, November 15.—The World's Louisville, Ky., special says: In regard to the interview alleged to have occurred between Judge Black of Pennsylvania and President Cleveland a week before election, at which Senator Black says he was present and denied the president's bitterly censuring Hewitt, Grant and Hill, and that Blackburn and others, Judge Black will disavow the utterances attributed to him, for this [illegible] publication than I have only to say that for two reasons both conclusive he has placed himself beyond recognition by defamation. First, because he proposes to publish to the world without authority a private conversation in the shape of interviews of his own seeking, and secondly, because then made an atom of truth in the statement of that private interview as I and it in to-day's Courier Journal. I took Black, as a ex-Kentuckian, and introduced him to the president at his own request weeks before the election. The interview lasted but a few minutes, there being no business to transact. The president mentioned neither Hewitt nor Grant's name, nor did anyone else. The president never hinted, however remotely, at any suspicion that he was to be traded or bully dealt with by any one in New York or anywhere else. On the contrary he spoke hopefully of the outlook, but added substantially that he was prepared to abide any result; the people might see fit to confer. He did refer to the political situation in New York, expressing the hope that matters would be harmonized and straightened up to our satisfaction."

Secretary Thompson's Claim.

Washington, November 15.—Representative Thompson, secretary of the democratic congressional committee, told a Star representative this afternoon that he thought the democrats would certainly have a majority of one or three in the next house.

Dempsey and Donovan

New York, November 15.—The long-talked of six round glove contest between Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil middle weight champion, and Prof. Mike Donovan, of the New York Athletic club [illegible] Madison Square Garden last night, was fought in accordance with the rules governing the London prize ring. Contrary to the expectations of everybody, Donovan set the ball rolling, landing on Dempsey's neck and head with his left. Dempsey returned on the stomach. Donovan followed it up with a quick one on the ribs and stomach. Jack retaliated on the mouth with his left, when Donovan missed him. The round closed with a beautiful stop by Donovan of a vicious blow from Dempsey's swinging right.

Second round—As they came up Donovan made a good stop and then went at Dempsey, chasing him about the ring. Dempsey sent a hot one on Donovan's mouth and neck, the professor coming back with a strong, straight left hand in the face and parrying a various blow. Dempsey found a resting place on Donovan's chest for his left as time was called.

The third round opened by Donovan stopping Dempsey's blow. Dempsey was short with his right, but Donovan followed it up, landing on his stomach. Donovan reached Jack's stomach again with the left. Dempsey returned with his right on the jaw. Prof. [illegible] another hard blow. Dempsey found Van's stomach twice, and landed twice on his ribs. All blows by each were clean and effective.

The fourth round opened by the professor landing on the Nonpareil's stomach with his left. Dempsey returning with his right on his neck. Donovan then landed two clean blows on Dempsey's nose. Dempsey returning on his stomach. Donovan found Jack's ribs with his right and then landed one on Dempsey's neck, the Nonpareil giving him one in the same place. Both were right handed swings.

[illegible] The work that the men had done was very fast, but exceedingly scientific. Every one was electrified by the exhibition of power by both. Dempsey rushed on the ribs when a clinch followed and the men separated without a spring in fighting. Dempsey sent a hard one on the neck with his right and [illegible] followed. Dempsey [illegible] with his left on Donovan's [illegible] Donovan found Dempsey's neck [illegible] was called.

[illegible] Both men were in a distressed shooting [illegible] work. Donovan found [illegible] with the left when [illegible] After the break Donovan [illegible] on Dempsey's nose. Dempsey [illegible] and first blood allowed. The [illegible] the round was fast and fur[illegible] doing considerable swinging and [illegible] trying to find knock out blows.

[illegible] was called and the contest end[illegible] Referee O'Rourke gave his decision making it a draw, but in a [illegible] of over fifty men, with few exceptions 50 declared that Donovan should have [illegible] who thought otherwise gave Dempsey only a shade of preference on the [illegible] and that Dempsey's blows were the heavier.

Civil service reform has not been active ... for the past few days. President-elect Harrison would probably like to know if some of our republican papers expect him to live up to the standard which they criticized Cleveland for falling short of.

Wisconsin and Michigan will have ... governor administrations for the next two years. In both these states the republican nominating conventions recognized the farmer element and chose from it their candidates for governor and both were successful.

A democratic exchange remarks regretfully that a great man is seldom selected to fill the office of president. These ... might be saved for another time, since a great man has just been elected to that office and will enter upon its duties on March 4.

J. N. Stevens received as a candidate for district attorney the largest majority given in Arapahoe county. Mr. Stevens defeated an election three years ago. His majority now only emphasizes this. He is to be congratulated on his splendid ... Time ... all things right.

The five great continental powers have 12,000,000 men under arms and in the parliaments of three of them, measures are now pending to increase this armed force. Notwithstanding these facts, Lord Salisbury calmly assures the subjects of her majesty that the indications point to peace.

Warner Miller's canvass in New York is ... the subject of praise everywhere. Few utterances of General Harrison's have so clearly demonstrated his ... as his telegram to Mr. Miller in which he describes the latter as "the intrepid leader who fell outside the fortifications."

The will of the party as expressed at the recent election is that the Hon. E. O. Wolcott should be the next senator from Colorado. This is the year when the republican party succeeds in getting what it wants. The efforts at combinations to beat Mr. Wolcott will therefore fail and ... there is a mistake in the assumption that the party expresses the state's determination.

The late African ... of among the European powers will probably put an end to the African slave trade. For nearly half a century English men-of-war have carried on a solitary struggle against slave-trading off the African ... But while England's persistent efforts have perhaps served to keep the trade within bounds, they have been powerless to stop it. Now by the co-operation of the powers, a determined crusade will be made against the trade which will soon make it a perilous business.

Henry Cabot Lodge at the Norfolk club in Boston gave a very felicitous speech on the election. A part of his speech was as follows:

... I left the Republican party four years ago and has become a very active member of the other party, said to me: "What do you propose to do, now you have got the government?" "Well," I said, "the first thing we shall do will be to pass the senate tariff bill or a bill very like it." Said he, "You seem to have the courage of your convictions." Said I, "We have. We are partisans. We have won the government as a party on a policy, and we mean to carry that policy out to fulfillment." [Tremendous applause.]

This is good sense. The party is pledged to tariff reform. Only it should give us a national measure and not a sectional measure like the Mills bill.

One of the best pen portraits of our president-elect is the following from the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Harrison is a statesman. He has been wonderfully ... for the discharge of the duties that are upon him. His experience has been that of a prior boy with an illiterate and ... mother, and a ... ... and ... a young lawyer whose capital was a good education and a good wife; a lawyer at the bar and an orator on the stump; a politician with ... fortune; a soldier entering the army and going to the field when the war was at its ... crisis; its hero ... and ... and forever unexplainable; an officer with his hat in one hand and sword in the other, leading his troops in the fire and ... sword to Joe Hooker where to strike the weak point of the ... line; in the ... position at the bar of a great state; in the senate of the United States, ready, strong, fertile in thought, with the courage of convictions, far removed from the ... of envy; the brave, honest man the ... from ... and ... defeat; the candidate of a ... party, meeting endless ... ... thousands, the speeches taken as uttered and telegraphed through the land, and on nearly a hundred occasions always saying something new, and never making a slip that the watchful enemy could turn against him or employ to plague his friends ... such a long campaign he goes every day in the confidence of the people and president-elect of the United States. He goes about his business, serene and unmoved, unaffected in his modesty, unabashed before the world, clear in his insight, and certain in his high purposes. We believe in his statesmanship, and the end of all is that we shall have righteousness and peace.

A Prohibition Rally.

[Manitou Journal.]

The Winsted Herald prints the following telegram from a gentleman of the highest character—a good temperance man and a good Methodist:

PRAYERS REQUESTED FOR THIRD PARTY PEOPLE.

[By Telegraph to the Herald.]

NEW YORK, November 8th, 1888.

—Prayers are requested for the prohibition party. They have placed the state of New York in the hands of Hill, Rum and the Devil, and Connecticut is the feet of that pure temperance hero, Cleveland.

Blessed are the pure in heart.
